OFFICIAL REPORT.

George P. Rowell & Co., the leading authority on newspaper information for the benefit of advertisers, have gone to the trouble of finding out the newspaper having the largest circulation at the principal city in each state, and also the one having the largest in the state outside of the principal city. They report the state of Indiana as follows: "THE FORT WAYNE SENTINEL, published Fort Wayne, Ind., has the highest circulation rating accorded to any daily in Indiana outside of Indianapolis."

TRAGEDY AT CHICAGO

A Maniac Fires Into the Board of Trade

And Wounds a Broker and a Telegraph Operator.

One of the Victims Shot in the Neck and May Die.

The Perpetrator of the Crime Proved to Be a Red Whiskered Anarchist of Herr Most's Stripe.

CHICAGO, Sept. 27.—A fusilade of bullets was fired into the wheat pit on the board of trade today. Instantly business was brought to a stand still, and the wildest excitement ensued.

A. N. Bennett, a broker, received a frightful wound in the neck.

Chas. Roswell, a telegraph operator, was shot in the face.

The perpetrator was a red bearded man who was in one of the galleries. He was quickly overpowered and taken into the office of the secretary of the board.

The individual who did the shooting was a stranger, who gained access to the gallery a few moments before noon. He fired at random into the throng of speculators, fatally injuring two persons.

M. F. Bennett, secretary of the Board of Trade Mutual Benefit association, and a prominent member of the board, will die from his injuries, and little hopes are given for the recovery of M. C. W. Roswell, one of the telegraph operators.

Bennett was shot in the neck, the bullet ranging downwards, while Roswell received a ball on the chin, shattering his whole face.

The man who did the shooting fired his revolver five times. He stood up at the rear end of the gallery and fired twice at the wall and then pointing the weapon downwards toward the floor fired three more times.

Bennett fell, apparently wounded, and was carried into the secretary's room, while physicians and surgeons were sent for.

Thomas Barrett, a member of the board, captured the man and handed him over to the police. The news that a murder had been committed on 'change spread like wild fire. Ten thousand people swarmed through the building. The affair took place at a quarter to 12 o'clock and caused the wildest excitement. The report that a woman was shot or that more than two men were injured proved unfounded.

The man who did the shooting was evidently a lunatic. He was a stout man, of middle age, poorly dressed, and for a time refused to give any name but "Chicago." Subsequently he gave the name of Cassius Belden, of 365 LaSalle avenue, Chicago.

Business was completely suspended and everything was consternation. As soon as the physicians arrived they examined Bennett and pronounced him fatally shot. Streams of blood flowed from the unfortunate man's neck and a gaping wound presented itself. Bennett lay on the table gasping for breath and the end was momentarily expected.

Roswell was picked up senseless and laid on a table. The ball entered his chin on the left side and ranged downward. Almost before the shooting had ceased William Barrett, who seemed to have more presence of mind than any one of the hundreds of bewildered people at hand, rushed up to the gallery and caught the maniac. The latter took the matter very coolly, and did not seem to realize what he had done.

At the first crack of the revolver every eye, of course, was turned toward the gallery. A puff of smoke ascended slowly and gave instant warning as to the location of the murderous maniac.

The next instant the revolver was again pointed, apparently at the crowd to the west of the wheat pit. Then there was a frantic rush from that spot. Every one succeeded in getting out of range. Again the crowd stopped from its frantic rush and once more looked to the gallery to see where the revolver was to point next time. By this time the lunatic's aim was unsteady, the revolver wiggled badly. There was a deadly uncertainty among the panic stricken traders to where it was to ultimately point when fired.

At last the agony was over, and the ball went crashing toward the northwest corner. Realizing that the lunatic was going to empty every chamber in his revolver at the crowd, everybody now began to look for a place of safety.

Commission men with orders in their hands squeezed against each other behind the big bulletin boards. The little smoking rooms at the corners were literally packed with human beings.

An insane mob rushing from a burning building never crowded more furiously against one another than did the board of trade men as they went down the broad stairs.

The people in the corn pit and in the provision man's aisle at the south east exchange room were comparatively safe for the lunatic was firing over their heads, at the crowd beyond. Not knowing when he would begin shooting downward there was a sprinting match between 400 and 500 men for the wash room at the southeast corner and for the broad doors leading to the south exit.

The egress from this part of the hall was much easier than from the northern part and in less than half a minute the corn pit, the sample tables and aisles resembled a deserted village.

The visitors, many of them from the country, who filled both galleries, were more frightened than were the brokers on the floor. The galleries were so full that it was impossible for but a few to reach the staircases. Those in the front seats dropped helter skelter behind the railing. Many of the people found safe places behind the chairs.

The dainty hats, which country milliners had produced as works of art for the world's fair, were ruined by the score as their wearers dropped to the floor and hid their heads behind chairs and railings.

In the gallery, where the revolver was being fired from, not a move was made by any of the visitors to disarm the crazy man. As Broker Huth said: "Our visitors might have let that fellow keep shooting at us for the rest of the session before they would have made a move to stop him. I suppose they were so surprised and frightened that they did not know what to do. It was lucky for us that Tom Barrett made that daring rush up the stairs and into the gallery, or more of us might have been shot. I do not think that there is anything from a dynamite fire cracker to a Krupp gun that Tom Barrett would not face if he thought he ought to."

Mr. Barrett modestly disclaimed any special bravery. "I was standing in the corn pit," he said, "when I heard the report of a pistol. It was repeated before I could locate the shooter, and he was standing in the little gallery under the clock, looking over the balustrade. I rushed outside the hall and ran up the north stairs to the gallery. When I got there, there was nobody in the gallery except the man I was after. All the others had rushed out of the gallery when the first shot was fired.

"I caught hold of the fellow by the back of the coat and grabbed hold of the white revolver he held in his hand. He must have been taken by surprise, as he did not make any resistance for about a minute. Then I took him down the stairs and turned him over to Officer Custis, who is always on the floor."

BELDIN TALKS.

"I want to talk to a reporter," said the prisoner to Police Lieutenant Golden as he was leading him down stairs in the Harrison street station. "My name is Cassius Beldin, I am a carriage painter and live at 365 La Salle avenue. I've been under hypnotic influences for three years. Three years ago a man named Jones hypnotized me at 229 Huron street.

"Hypnotism is slow, and it has only been a short time since I reached the exalted state. I was in the vulgar state for a long time. I have visited the board of trade frequently. I knew I was in bondage. It has been a struggle for bread with all of us, but when they began to sell my soul in the board of trade today I resisted.

"Before they sold my soul they sold my two children, who are in Philadelphia. I have a wife in Philadelphia besides two children. We are all in bondage. It is a struggle for bread."

Chas. W. Roswell, the Western Union employe, who was shot in the mouth, is assistant chief of the operators on the floor.

He was standing behind the St. Louis wire giving some instructions when the shooting commenced. This did not deter him from continuing at work, but the third shot fired wildly by the man in the gallery struck him in the mouth and is supposed to have lodged under his tongue. He is married and has a family.

Beldin is a medium-sized man, about forty years old, with a brown mustache. He is slightly bald in front. The man was dressed in brown material such as laborer usually wears.

A WOMAN SHOT.

As the shooting commenced from the south gallery, Mrs. W. W. Lewis, of Titusville, Pa., who was in the opposite gallery, started down the stairs.

The last of the five shots struck her and she fell fainting at the foot of the stairs. The wound proved to be only a flesh wound in the back.

Miss Pearl Smith was pleasantly surprised last evening on her return from a walk with a friend to find that about twenty five of her schoolmates had gathered at her home to remind her that it was her twelfth birthday, and with them they brought a fine rocking chair and ribbon bow and handkerchief. She also received a handsome bible and souvenir spoon. Those present were: Misses Nora Hoeming, Lottie Racine, Ida Parish, Pearl Parker, Grella and Agnes Russell, Cosy Dresback, Pauline Willhelm, Bessie Link, Ceicle Link, Jessie Link, Roby Fair, Jessie Waterson, Ida Maxwell, Alma Feigle, Ethel Shofer and Grace Lutz, Messrs. Frank McCurdy, Walter Hoeming, Fred and Albert Crupet, Gusta Lassur, Albert Schock, Billy Link, Perry Shober. Refreshments were served.

Mr and Mrs. Louis Reed and their sons, Russell and Louis, are at Chicago seeing the sights. From there Mr Reed will go to Frier's Point, Miss., where he has business interests.

NAVAL BATTLE

Between Rebel Torpedo Boats and Argentine War Ships.

Desperate Fighting Between the Government Forces and the Rebels Ends in the Defeat of the Latter.

BUENOS AYRES, Sept. 27.—The battle yesterday between the rebel torpedo boats and the government men-of-war, was one of the most exciting skirmishes of the kind ever witnessed. The rebels had hoped to catch the government fleet unawares and by making a desperate and combined attack upon them succeed in blowing several of them out of water.

The rebels, it seems, had been for some time past, laying plans for this onslaught upon the government ships. They secured possession of two torpedo boats and several tugs which they rigged up with torpedo booms and protected with boilerplates, making them quite effective torpedo boats. The fitting out of these dangerous little vessels was carried on in quiet nooks along the coast, near here, where the rebels believed themselves to be quite secure from government observation.

The commander of the Argentine war ships, however, had been satisfied of the projected attack, and had taken steps to give the rebels a warm reception. A constant watch was kept, unobserved, on board the government ships, and the rapid fire and other guns were kept loaded and their crews within a moment's call. In addition the boats of the war ships were kept ready for lowering and the steam launches ready for immediate use.

The rebel boats, unaware of the measures taken to give them a warm reception, steamed out of their places of concealment at the appointed time, and, assisted by the morning haze, circled around a little and then, at a given signal, made for the men-of-war, expecting to find their crews totally unprepared for battle.

To the rebels surprise, however, hardly had they gotten within range when the war ships opened fire upon them in the most deadly manner possible. Nothing daunted the rebel boats returned the fire in a most determined manner and continued to press onward beneath a hail of rapid fire of bullets which fell upon their boats, wounding and killing many of their officers and men. The rebel fire was also effective, as there was loss of life among officers and crews of the war ships attacked.

But the result of the battle was not long in doubt; the closer the torpedo boats approached, the more terrible became the fire of the war ships and the torpedo boats came to a standstill. This was the signal for the war ships to take the offensive. A signal was hoisted by the flagship reading: "Lower boats and attack." In almost less time than it takes to write it, the boats of the Argentine war vessels were lowered and in pursuit of the enemy.

The latter, at first, made a stand against the government boats, the fire of the war ships having ceased in order to enable the government's small fleet to close in with the enemy. Then began some desperate fighting between the crews of the rebel torpedo boats and boat's crews of the government vessels. Some of the boats, on both sides, used rapid-fire guns with telling effect, but the rebels eventually turned tail and made for the land in the hope of running their vessels ashore and escaping with their lives.

Previous to the fight, however, a government steam lauch had run alongside of the most dangerous torpedo boat of the enemy and the loyal sailors boarded it in grand style, led by their officers, sword and pistol in hand. A fierce hand-to-hand conflict took place, but it only lasted a few minutes, as the government sailors carried all before them and captured the torpedo boat and all of its crew who were not killed in the engagement.

Others of the rebel torpedo boats eventually fell into the hands of the government officers and sailors in the same manner, the fighting throughout being of the most desperate character. Some of the rebels reached shore in safety, but the majority of them were captured, either ashore or afloat, by the government forces, as troops and police attracted to the shore by the sound of firing, made prisoners of nearly all the rebels who swam ashore or reached land in their torpedo boats.

LIMA'S GUNN.

Claimed That He Has Been Seen in the West.

LIMA, Ohio, Sept. 27.—E. L. Gunn, who departed from Lima with thousands of dollars of other people's money, has been located.

A former Limaite, writing from a western town, the name of which is withheld for obvious reasons, says he can put his hand on Gunn in twenty-four hours, and inquires if there is a reward for his capture.

The matter has been placed in the hands of the authorities, and the Connecticut School Fund, of Hartford, the heaviest loser, has been wired.

KENRICK NOT DEPOSED.

Mgr. Satolli So Declares in a Letter Over His Own Signature.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 27.—The Post Dispatch contains the following from Washington:

"A correspondent has received the following autograph letter from Mgr. Satolli in answer to an inquiry about the reports concerning the affairs of the archdiocese of St. Louis: 'Mgr. Satolli answers your inquiry that the Most Rev. Archbishop Kenrick has not been deposed, and that in regard to the Most Rev. Archbishop Kain the question must depend upon the particular arrangements agreed upon by the two prelates.' "

This letter is not considered conclusive in St. Louis and is regarded by many churchmen as a clever evasion of a direct question. There is a settled belief that Coadjutor Archbishop Kain controls both the spiritual and temporal affairs of the archdiocese and that Archbishop Kenrick simply wears the honors that he has earned by a lifetime of labor.

INDIANA DAY

At the World's Fair Brings Out Great Crowds.

Governor Matthews and Other Hoosier Orators Talk and the Fort Wayne City Band Furnishes Music.

WORLD'S FAIR GROUNDS, Sept. 27.—Silver tongued orators, a full chorus and a moderate railroad rate was the secret of the splendid success of the Indiana day exercises. People poured in from all points of the Hoosier state, which today presented to the great crowd that surged around the little house of Indiana the most interesting program that has been arranged since the opening of the fair.

Commissioner Havens planned Indiana day exercises a month ago, but he found that all the speakers could not be present, so he changed the date when the orators could come and Governor Matthews issued another proclamation. Today he saw the fulfillment of his hopes. Only one oration on the program was missing and that was Senator Daniel W. Voorhees, who found, at the last minute, that he could not leave Washington.

The people began to arrive a day or two ago from Indiana and they kept coming until today. Big train loads arrived early this morning and were unloaded at the exposition gate, so when Governor Matthews rapped the audience to order at this morning's session he looked out over a crowd that extended into and onto the adjoining state buildings.

Governor Matthews, ex-President Harrison, ex-Secretary of the Navy R. W. Thompson, General Lew Wallace, James Whitcomb Riley and other noted Hoosiers came in last night and were met by Commissioner B. F. Havens and Clem Studebaker.

The building had been prettily decorated and a platform on the south side had been erected this morning, when the crowd began to mass about the scene of the exercises.

The Fort Wayne band and the Iowa State band alternated in filling the air with music. After several selections Governor Matthews called the audience to order and made a short address. The Hoosier Nightingales, of Elkhart, Ind., then sang. Ex-President Harrison spoke. He is always a favorite at the fair, and his appearance caused great applause. Mr Harrison spent a week at the fair some months ago, so he was no novice in the description of the beauties of the White City. His speech was warmly received. Gen Lew Wallace was the next distinguished speaker. He delighted his hearers. James Whitcomb Riley, the Hoosier poet, gave several recitations. The last orator of the day was ex Secretary of the Navy R. W. Thompson. The exercises were concluded by a song by the Hoosier Nightingales.

Immediately after the exercises a reception was tendered Governor Matthews and staff in the building. Hoosiers flocked through the reception room to shake hands with their governor. Tonight special fireworks will be set off in honor of the day.

The Odd Fellows held sway again today jointly with Indiana. The gentlemen of the three links scattered about the grounds with their families and devoted a good part of the day to sight-seeing. They were together in force, however, for the dress parade on the government plaza, where a large crowd assembled to witness their maneuvres. The Patriarchs Militant had another competitive drill in the stock pavilion.

The Association of American Exhibitors, at a mass meeting held last night, adopted resolutions emphatically protesting against the resolution introduced in congress by Congressman Durburrows, asking that the board of lady managers be given authority to issue fac simile copies of awarded medals and distribute them to expert workmen of the exhibition. The resolution will be forwarded to Washington.

THE ROBY CASES

Will Be Tried by Judge Langdon, of Lafayette.

LAFAYETTE, Ind., Sept. 27.—John H. Gillette, judge of Lake county circuit court, today telegraphed Judge Byron W. Langdon, asking him if he would try the Roby cases next week. Mr Langdon replied in the affirmative. The first case is set for next Monday.

A Big Crowd.

WORLD'S FAIR GROUNDS, Sept. 27.—Paid admissions at the fair yesterday were 191913.

Reliable Dyes for Brown.

To color dresses, jackets, suits, etc., a brown that will not crock, fade or wash out, use any of the fast Diamond Dye browns. There are three kinds, for wool, brown, dark brown and seal brown; also, a special brown for cotton.

These fast brown Diamond Dyes are made from patented dyestuffs that cannot be obtained in any other form, and this explains their superiority.

DEADLY WRECK.

The Erie Express Crashes Into a Private Car

Killing Cashier Meredith and His Wife and Injuring Several Other People.

BATTLE CREEK, Mich., Sept. 27.—A terrible accident occurred on the Grand Trunk railroad at this point, at 2 o'clock this morning. The Erie express ran into the rear of a regular train, demolishing a special car containing Cashier Meridith and wife, of the Chicago and Grand Trunk, Henry A. Newland and wife, father and mother of Mrs. Meridith; Wm. Costels, porter, and Wm. Abernathy, cook.

Mr. and Mrs. Newland were killed outright, Mr and Mrs Meridith badly but not fatally injured, and Costles fatally hurt. Mr. Abernathy is safe. Jennison, fireman of the last train, was badly scalded. The side of the depot was smashed in. Superintendent McIntyre and other railroad officials are here in charge. Coroner Evans has taken charge of the bodies. Wm. Costles is the porter of Newland & Co's store. He was on the car as butler for the party. The occupants of the car were all residents of Detroit.

As nearly as can be ascertained, (for the railroad officials refuse to talk), the accident happened in this way. The regular west bound train, due at Bellevue at 12:30 a. m., was two hours late. As it lay at the depot the fast Lake Erie train, which does not stop at the station, came along at tremendous speed. Meridith's private car was at the rear of the regular train, and directly in front of it was a sleeper. The Lake Erie engine plowed clear through the rear car, leaving it in two sections on either side of the track, and bunted against the sleeper. The private car was almost entirely demolished, while the Lake Erie engine was badly damaged.

DETROIT, Sept. 27.—General Manager Spicer and a party of the chief officers of the Grand Trunk road left Detroit at 8 o'clock this morning on a special train for the scene of the wreck. Henry A. Newland was a wholesale furrier and one of the oldest and most prominent merchants of this city. His wife was a daughter of the veteran railroad capitalist, James F. Joy, of this city.

NO COMPROMISE.

Cleveland Says So and That Settles It.

Senator Gorman Also States That the Silver Men and Anti-Silver Men Cannot Agree Upon a Bill.

WASHINGTON, Sept 27.—There seems to be little probability of a compromise on the silver repeal bill question. Senator Voorhees, as the one most likely to know the president's condition of mind at this juncture, when compromise is being urged, said in reply to a direct question: "I have not seen the president within two weeks, nor have I heard from him in relation to the silver question. I do not believe that he has authorized any step in the direction of a compromise, and yet I would not say that he has not. I know nothing about any compromise."

Senator Gorman said that there was no compromise as far as he was concerned. When asked if he knew anything about a compromise, he did not answer.

Representative Bland, of Missouri, leader of the silver forces in the house, has returned to Washington after an absence of several weeks. He was called home by the dangerous illness of Mrs. Bland, but she has so far recovered as to be able to accompany her husband here. Mr. Bland will soon call together the committee on coins, weights and measures for organization, and proceed to the consideration of the measures offered to it.

In the senate this morning the resolution offered on yesterday by Mr. Dubois (rep.), of Idaho, to postpone legislation respecting federal election laws, finance and tariff until January 15, 1894, because of the senatorial vacancies in the senatorial representation of Washington, Montana and Wyoming, was taken up and Mr. Dubois addressed the senate in advocacy of its adoption.

LOCAL LINES.

Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Tresselt and Miss Clara Arnold are taking in the world's fair.

The many friends of Mrs. J. C. Peltier will regret to learn that she is ill again and confined to her bed.

Miss Mamie Neidhofer, of St. Martin street, will leave tomorrow evening for the world's fair, to be gone about two weeks.

Miss Anna Sanders of Delphos, Ohio, who has been visiting the Misses Hubers, of East Washington street, returned home last evening.

Alexander McK. Cameron, salesman for Olds' Wagon works, left last night for Europe to be absent a year. Mr. Cameron has not been home for twelve years.

Two strolling compositors, who said their names were Albert Mitchell and Philip Gerbais, were up before the mayor at police court this morning for drunkenness. Last night they were about the city and raised a racket at the Journal office. Officer Paul was called in and took the two typos off to the station. Both pleaded guilty and were sent to jail for eleven days. ... Jones was picked up last night for drunkenness by Officer Fletcher. This morning Jones acknowledged his error and went to jail for eleven days.

THINK THEY HAVE 'EM.

Three Suspicious Characters Arrested at Kensington.

Detectives Believe They Have Captured Some of the Lake Shore Train Robbers.

CHICAGO, Sept. 27.—Three men whose actions aroused the suspicions of the police led the Kensington officers a wild chase today through the thinly-settled district around the shores of Lake Calumet. Three men were arrested and are being held at the Hyde Park police station.

Lieutenant Bassett, who superintended the capture, thinks the men may have been implicated in the Kendallville train robbery. His belief is strengthened by stories told by Michigan Central employes. He sent promptly for Express Messenger Hamlin, who saw the robbers, and for General Superintendent Wygart, who has been giving the case close attention.

The prisoners gave their names as John Wilson, John Graham and James King. They say they have been employed as railway hands in Kansas and have just reached Chicago.

FRENCH VICTORY.

Paknam Fort Bombarded and Captured

And the Colors of France Float From the Flagstaffs of the Fort and Signal Station.

PARIS, Sept. 27.—A dispatch from Chantibun, Siam, dated September 15, via Singapour, September 27, says that the French cruiser Alouette has captured Paknam fort, at that point and garrisoned the fort with a portion of her crew. The tri color of France was hoisted over the fort on the flagstaff of the signal station opposite. The French, when the dispatch was sent, were building rifle pits around the barracks. Chantibun, or Chantabu, is on a rich point near the Gulf of Siam, and only 175 miles from Sanko, the capital of Siam. It is connected with Bankok by telegraph wire. Many junks from Canton load at Chantibun. Its population is about 30,000.

INVESTIGATING.

The Senate Looks Into Charges Against an Office Seeker.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27.—The senate committee on foreign affairs and relations, at its meeting today, took up and informally discussed the appointment of Mr. James J. VanAlen to be ambassador to Italy, but reached no conclusion concerning it. The charges made in the public press against Mr. Van Alen were canvassed at some length and there was a substantial agreement that these were sufficiently grave to justify the postponement of final consideration to allow further investigation of the charges.

THE WINNING TICKET.

The Massachusetts Democrats Meet in Convention.

BOSTON, Mass., Sept. 27.—John E. Russell was nominated for governor, Charles E. Carroll for lieutenant governor, J. W. McDonald, of Marlborough, secretary of state; Charles S. Lillie, of Dudley, attorney general, and John D. Wheelwright, of Boston, auditor, by the democrats of Massachusetts today.

SPECIAL ELECTION.

Michigan Will Select a Successor to Congressman Chipman.

LANSING, Mich., Sept. 27.—Governor Rich today issued an order for a special election for the First congressional district to fill the vacancy caused by the death of J. Logan Chipman. November 7 was decided on as the date.

Appointments.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27.—The president today sent the following nominations to the senate:

Robert E. Preston, of the District of Columbia, to be director of the mint.

Third Lieutenant Frederick G. Dodge, of Massachusetts, to be a second lieutenant in the revenue cutter service.

LOCAL NEWS.

Louise Prince, of Wayne township, died this morning of consumption, at her husband's home. She was twenty years of age.

The foolish report of a case of small-pox on the east side, which was circulated about the streets yesterday, had no foundation whatever.

Miss Mary John, formerly of this city, who has enjoyed a pleasant visit with Miss Mamie O'Connor, of Baker street, for a week, will return to her home today.

William H. Webster, chief United States civil service examiner, finished his labors at the postoffice at noon today, and left for the east. He will make a report to the commissioners, who report back to Postmaster Rockhill.

Mrs. Samuel Shilts, of Dorrence, Kan., who has been at Denver, Col., for some months, will arrive in the city tomorrow and be the guest of her daughter, Mrs. William Schoetzmeyer, of 3.. Harrison street, for a few weeks. Mr. Shilts will arrive a week later.

Rev. J. L. Berger will give on next Sabbath evening the first of a series of illustrated discourses on "The Triumphs of the Gospel in the Caribbee Islands of the South Pacific Ocean." The people, their modes of life and their religion, and the progress of Christianity among them, unrivalled amongst any heathen people, will be fully illustrated.

CAPT. CHARLES REESE

Highly Recommended for Travelling Revenue Collector.

Others Who Wanted the Same Juicy Plumb—Louis Schroeder Out for Revenue Stamp Clerk.

The many friends of Capt. Charles Reese, of this city, will be pleased to learn that Congressman McNagny has recommended him to Wm H. Bracken, internal revenue collector of this district as traveling deputy collector of revenue. The position is a very desirable one and pays a neat salary. Captain Reese is an old soldier, and for this and other reasons Congressman McNagny made the recommendation.

There were several other applicants for the place, among them being Mr Frank Brucker, deputy city treasurer. Mr. Brucker was offered the position of stamp clerk with headquarters in this city, but as the place only pays $600 per year, Mr. Brucker declined it. In fact, he had written to Mr McNagny to that effect a few days previous to receiving the letter announcing his recommendation as stamp clerk. It is said that Mr. Louis Schroeder, of Broadway, has a strong pull for the place of stamp clerk.

GEORGE WARD'S PROSPECTS

George Ward, of this city, the express messenger on the Lake Erie and Western railroad, is an applicant for the position of deputy revenue collector and has the indorsement of a number of prominent democrats in this city and throughout the state, and is also confident of receiving the appointment.

THREE OF A KIND.

Zimmerman, Banker and Black, the Famous Wheelmen.

They Pay Fort Wayne An Early Morning Visit En Route for the Kendallville Races.

Zimmerman, the great bicycle racer, accompanied by Sid Black, the trick rider, and George Banker, the well known bicyclist, arrived in this city this morning on No. 25 over the Pittsburg road and put up at the Randall hotel for breakfast. The three wheelmen were en route for Kendallville, Ind., to attend the races, and went north after breakfast over the Grand Rapids and Indiana road. All three men were seen at the hotel by a SENTINEL representative. Zimmerman is in prime condition. He is a fine, manly looking young fellow with big bones and weighs about 170 pounds. Zimmerman has had a particularly favorable season and after making two or three more races will leave for his home in New York. The Kendallville people are to be congratulated upon securing such drawing cards.

Banker is short, stout and solid and looks every inch a racer. He has been giving "Zimmy" a hard tussel this summer.

BEWARE! BEWARE!

A Few Pointers to the Public.

Look Out for Doctors and Opticians Who Are "Cure-Alls"—Consult Your Family Physician and Optician.

We have in our midst a few so called opticians claiming to be doctors and some professors who are going from house to house selling goods for fabulous prices and misrepresenting things and also running down goods sold by responsible firms who are always ready to adjust and make right any and all goods sold, that do not meet requirements. When a man advertises himself as a scientific optician without a superior, look out. Beware of scientific doctors and professors that have no equal. Consult your family physician, an occulist or optician who does not know too much but just enough to give you good medicines and advice or glasses that you really need.

WOLKE, the optician.

A STRONG CAST.

The Schroeder Dramatic Club Appears Tomorrow Night.

The Schroeder Dramatic club will present the great war drama, "A Soldier's Wife," at Schroeder's hall tomorrow evening with the following cast: Hugh Ramsom, of New York, Harry Leland; Harold, King of Alabama, Louis Sylvester. GRAVELING ROADS.

The Farmers of the County Improving the Highways.

In all parts of the county the farmers are improving the highways and in many localities they are graveling them. William Eggeman, the supervisor of road district No. 6, in Adams township had one hundred loads of gravel hauled free on the Fort Wayne and Decatur road. The names of the men who lent their services are: Preston Barney Thibbitts, Herman Seddlemeyer, Edward Schroeder, Henry Schrader, James Thompson, William Thompson, Crist Gerber, Philip Berg, Henry Dinkert, Jacob Gable, Edward Blake, John Bird, Ernest Peeper, George Harris, John Gumbert, Frank Trenchtenicht, Frederick Trenchtenicht, Ernest Prusse, Paul Trier, John Sorge, William Schrader, jr., Henry Grieser, Walter Thompson, Fred Hockemeyer, John Ziegler, Henry Hormen, Fred Holley, Charles Blake, William Stocks, Sam Holbeit, Harmen Gable, Christ Pohler, Henry Buncomb, Fred Clapper.

DESERTED HIS BRIDE

On Her Wedding Day and Now She Seeks a Divorce.

Suit Brought in the Courts by Sophia Culver Against Her Husband, Charles Culver.

Mrs. Sophia Culver has brought suit in the circuit court for a divorce from her husband, Charles Culver, the petition in the case being filed by J. R. Bittinger as attorney for the plaintiff.

In her petition the plaintiff says that she was married to the defendant on the 29th day of December, 1889, and adds, "at no time have they lived together as man and wife," the defendant abandoning her on the day they were married, since which time he has failed to provide for her.

In the next paragraph she says that as the fruits of their marriage one child, a little girl, Lottie, was born, who is now two years old. She asserts that the husband is not a proper person to care for the child and therefore prays that she may be given its custody.

COURT NOTES.

Mary Grubler was divorced from Charles Grubler on her complaint of cruel treatment.

Judge Dawson, of the superior court, has assigned a number of cases for trial by a jury.

DEATH FROM ICE WATER

Sad Demise of Mrs. Anna Elizabeth Evans.

A Sister at the Hospital Passes Away—An Old Settler Dies on Creighton Avenue.

The many friends of Anna Elizabeth Evans, wife of Harry Evans, of No. 22 Union street, were grieved to learn of her death, which occurred this morning. The cause of her demise was hemorrhage of the stomach. Some two weeks ago, while very warm, Mrs. Evans thoughtlessly drank a large quantity of ice water. The fluid caused a serious derangement of the stomach, which resulted in her death.

She was an excellent Christian woman and leaves, besides her husband, one son, aged eleven years, to mourn her loss. She was a native of London, England.

The funeral will occur Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from the residence. Rev Seabrease will officiate.

SISTER MARGUERITE.

Yesterday at St. Joseph hospital Sister Marguerite passed away after a long illness with consumption. The funeral will be held in the chapel at the hospital tomorrow morning at 8 o'clock.

HENDLER.

Mrs. Eva Hendler, a native of Germany, who has lived in Fort Wayne for many years, died at 6 o'clock last night at 113 Creighton avenue. She was sixty-nine years old and the cause of death was old age. Mrs. Hendler was a widow. She leaves children and grandchildren. The deceased was a member of St. Peter's Catholic church.

PRINCE.

Mrs. Louisa Prince, wife of George Prince, of Wayne township, died of consumption at an early hour this morning, aged twenty years. The funeral will take place at 9 o'clock Friday morning from St. Patrick's Catholic church.

FRIGHTFUL ACCIDENT.

A Steamer's Boiler Explodes, Killing Thirty Men.

VANCOUVER, B. C., Sept. 27.—Advices brought by the Empress of India state that the boiler of a steamer plying on the Japanese coast exploded August 24, and that thirty persons were killed.

It is said that arrangements are being made for a grand athletic entertainment to come off in this city in the near future.

WANTED [illegible]

DR. J. A. COMINGOR.

Formerly Surgeon-General of This State.

Has Perfected a Cure for Rupture—Painless, Safe and Certain.

DR. J. A. COMINGOR, one of the most prominent and experienced surgeons in the United States, has established an office in rooms 6 and 7 White's Bank Building, Fort Wayne, Ind., for the purpose of treating Rupture, Varicocele and Hydrocele exclusively.

It is not an exaggeration to say that no medical concern in this country possesses a medical staff of higher standing, ability and character than the Dr. J. A. Comingor Company, which was especially organized with a capital of $[illegible] for the purpose of maintaining, enlarging and perpetuating the system of curing rupture and kindred complaints originated and successfully practiced by Dr. Comingor for many years.

DR. J. A. COMINGOR is a native of Indiana, was educated in New York, and has been in continuous practice as a surgeon for the past forty (40) years. He was for three years surgeon of the 11th Indiana Volunteers during the late war. Since that time he has been Dean of the Indiana Medical College of Indiana. For twenty-three years he was Professor of Surgery in the Indiana Medical College, and the Central College of Physicians and Surgeons, and for twenty-five years he was Surgeon-in-Chief at St. Vincent's Hospital, Indianapolis, and for four years Surgeon General in the state of Indiana.

DR. THOMSON, chief consulting physician at the office of the Dr. John A. Comingor Co., White's Bank Building, Fort Wayne, Indiana, is a graduate of the Miami Medical College, the Medical Department of the University of Cincinnati, was a student at the New York Polyclinic and other New York institutions devoted to the higher branches of medicine, and has been for many years in special practice.

DR. THOMSON is an active member of the American Association of Expert Specialists, a society that admits to membership only those physicians of Europe and America who have distinguished themselves as specialists.

Now as to their methods of doing business and dealing with patients. They give an absolute guarantee to cure. They do not as has been done by certain swindlers announce that they will cure or refund the money, but the Dr. Comingor Company says: "We will cure the patient and take our pay when he is well."

Whatever a man's station in life may be, rupture and trusses will depreciate his capacities and energies 25 to 50 per cent., cause a gradual failure of his mental powers and reduce his physical and commercial value fully one half. In short, one who suffers from rupture is indeed an object of sympathy and commiseration.

They will cause no pain, charge you nothing if they do not cure you, and refer to National Banks and Mercantile Reporters as to their responsibility. Can anything be fairer?

Examination is free and office hours are from 9 to 12 a. m., 2 to 4 p. m.; Sundays 10 to 12 a. m.

THE county fairs throughout the state are now in all their glory. This county has not had a pumpkin show for a long time.

THE fogs of fall have come. This morning the fog was so dense that objects could not be distinguished one hundred feet away.

THESE are the days when, in the language of our own James Whitcomb Riley, "the frost is on the pumpkin and the fodder's in the shock."

WHILE the railroads are attending to the train robbers, the gamblers should not be forgotten. They ought to be cleaned out, root and branch, in Fort Wayne.

SENATOR STEWART'S undignified and rabid attack upon President Cleveland because the President is not a college graduate will make no friends for Stewart.

IT is stated that Captain Bracken, of Brookville, the newly appointed revenue collector of this district has received 1,200 applications for appointment to the fifty places within his gift.

THE township trustees of Bartholomew county will unite in opposing the collections set on foot by the attorney general under the new legislative act and the county commissioners will assist.

IN discussing the chances for a renomination of the different Indiana congressmen the Washington correspondent of the Indianapolis News says: "Messrs. Martin, McNagny, Taylor and Hammond have no opposition so far as can be learned."

AT the meeting of the city council the fire commissioners reported in favor of building new engine houses in the Fifth, Eight and Ninth wards and the council did right in adopting the report. The work on the new buildings will begin as soon as the necessary arrangements can be completed.

IT is highly probable that the committee on territories will report a bill for the admission of Utah to the statehood within a few days. Mr. Joseph, a member of that committee, said such a bill would be reported and added that before the close of the present session bills for the admission of Arizona, New Mexico and Oklahoma would be reported favorably from his committee. He also expressed great confidence that all four of the bills will become laws.

IN the case of the Portland Natural Gas and Oil company against W. W. Keen, of Jay county, the supreme court decided that gas companies must furnish gas to patrons who have property in the street traversed by the gas main. The opinion was by Judge Coffey. It held that where the occupants or owners of property make the necessary arrangements for the gas, it is the duty of the company to furnish the fuel. When the company refuses it can be compelled by mandamus to furnish gas.

ASSOCIATE JUSTICE HORNBLOWER, who succeeds Judge Blatchford, is only forty-two years old. This is somewhat of a departure from the custom of recent years, but the record shows that four judges of the supreme court were appointed at even an earlier age than Mr. Hornblower—namely, Storey, who was thirty-two, Johnson, who was the same age, Bushrod Washington, who was thirty-six, and Iredell, who was thirty-nine. The lack of age is not an objection in a public official even in a position so exalted as that of associate justice on the supreme bench.

THE peaceful attitude of the unemployed workingmen in Philadelphia, Cincinnati and St. Louis as compared with the same class in New York, Chicago and Denver, is quoted and practical argument in favor of owning a home as a citizen. With no property rights or privileges to worry about, the great mass of humanity existing in rented quarters like the tenement system, have nothing at stake when they engage in riots or kindred demonstrations. Scenes similar to those lately witnessed in New York and Chicago do not occur in Philadelphia and the other cities where workingmen largely own their homes.

THE most striking example of the day in which personal friendship on [illegible] outweighs political [illegible] is found in the close associations which existed all through the last congress and which exist closer today between Bourke Cockran, of New York, and Mr. Reed. These men are almost as intimate as Damon and Pythias. They talk together, they read the same books, they dine together, and when their families are in Washington their wives are great comrades. And yet upon the floor of the house, whenever a partisan issue arises, Mr. Reed and Mr. Cockran are likely at any moment to be pitted against each other as the chief oratorical gladiators in the arena.

Law for Married Women.

The new married women's law passed by the late legislature of Pennsylvania [illegible] of [illegible] with that class of persons. It was [illegible] the courts which, pursuing the [illegible] of very strict construction on that subject, had largely restrained the apparent extent of previous legislation, as well as to meet the demand for larger freedom over their estates by married women, says the Pittsburgh Times. The act provides that a married woman may have the same right and power as an unmarried person to acquire, use, lease and dispose of property, but she may not mortgage or convey her real estate unless her husband joins. She may also make any contract in writing or otherwise which is necessary, appropriate, convenient or advantageous to the exercise or enjoyment of her rights of property, but she may not become accommodation indorser, maker, guarantor or surety for another. She may sue and be sued civilly, but she may not sue her husband except for divorce or to protect or recover her separate property when deserted or refused support, and he may sue her for divorce or to protect or recover his property when deserted by her, but she shall not be arrested for her torts. In suits between husband and wife, both shall be competent witnesses, but cannot testify to the confidential communications unless by agreement. She may dispose by will of all her property, but the husband's right as tenant by courtesy shall not be affected. The act of June 3, 1887, and all other inconsistent acts are repealed by this act, which was approved June 8, 1893.

A SPECIMEN from the far north, in the shape of a loon, or great northern diver, recently astonished the New Mexico natives by appearing in the Rio Grande valley. Its flying trip came to a disastrous end in a furious hail storm, which beat it to the ground, and it was captured by Mexicans, who were vastly impressed by its size, strange appearance, and the beauty of its black and silver plumage. Finding, however, that it was too unwieldy on its land legs to win distinction in cock-pit, they sold the bird to an American in Las Vegas, who proposed to rear a superior breed of water fowl by crossing it with the domestic goose. His experiment in natural history proved a wild goose chase, for the hapless bird soon died under its captivity.

A ST. LOUIS physician is querying to know why marriage ceremonies should not be performed by doctors of medicine instead of having the authority lodged in the hands of doctors of divinity and other ministers. He thinks it would be a good thing for this country if the doctors were given the power and exercised it properly. "If I had my way," he says, "no two persons should be united for life unless they had good, strong and sound physical make-ups. Then I would never marry two blondes, but would always require a blonde to secure a brunette for a partner. If this were done we should become more beautiful as a race and stronger and longer lived."

THE whaling industry has fallen off so much as to play but a small part in the world's commerce. The latest figures obtainable show the production to average between 15,000 and 20,000 tuns of 252 gallons each per year. There are two kinds of whale oil—the sperm, taken from the head of the cachalot or sperm whale and train oil, which is derived from the common whales, or as it is more commonly known, the right whale. Sperm oil is worth from $[illegible] to $80 per tun and the ordinary train oil about $50.

"THE NUISANCE," said a traveler, the other day, "one strikes in a car with a door that won't stay shut. If it is on a road where the stations are close together there is nothing to do but keep shutting it as fast as it flies open. This task usually falls upon the man sitting nearest. On roads where the stations are far apart passengers sometimes close a door securely by jamming it upon a folded newspaper placed against the jamb."

THE demand for currency is bringing out the old fractional script government and others issued during the war, which have for years been in collections or have been forgotten. The city of Albany lately redeemed thirty dollars of this script issued in 1862, at the time when postage stamps were used for change. The Albany script was found in the strong box of an old Albanian recently deceased.

PHILIP, THE BAHAMAN.

I know old men in Spanish Wells who have never seen a horse or a four wheel vehicle. Persons live and die here and never go 20 miles from the settlement. They do not know what a sidewalk is. Nassau, 40 miles away, is their ideal. "Why," said Joe Pindar to me, "Nassau is a city, boy. But its 6,000 people, and the streets are so wide carriages can drive along and leave room for persons to walk on each side." As can be seen, the Bahamans are "cockneys." We told Joe we lived 1,100 miles from water. "Island ina there land enough for that?" he exclaimed. Fancy turning an electric car through the island some dark night when the trolley and the wheels spit fire! It would send the poor devils on their knees in a twinkle.

After the chicken episode Philip brought a sack of land crabs to us. These crabs are enormous and swarm on the islands. The natives catch them at night, when the animals come out of their holes. Hardly a night passes that we do not see lanterns flashing along the shore, giving evidence that a crab hunt is in progress. The crustaceans are eaten greedily by the islanders. The eggs are esteemed a delicacy and really are very good. Philip deposited the squirming sack on the deck. He is a typical Bahaman, and I took him and the crabs at one shot with a camera. He is a wonderful diver. Most of these people are. Philip says he can go down nine fathoms—54 feet. That is a long dive, as three fathoms make a fellow's head to ring.

The colored Bahamans are different in some degree from the whites. They offer the finest specimens of the negro race that can be found. Spanish Wells has a white population, but I have met the darkies at other points. They are great, well developed creatures, with splendid chests and arms. We were cruising once near Andros Island, and a lot of black fellows came aboard. They are terrible beggars, but very religious. They wanted a Bible first, then an old hat, then a pair of pantaloons. One of the darkies acted as captain and took everything we gave them and blessed us fervently. "We so po'—can't mos'able critters—gib us anything," he said.

LIKE THE ALICE MITCHELL CASE

Two Connecticut Women Arrested for Their Illicit Love Affair.

Miss Eugenia Smith, a daughter of the Rev. Stephen C. Smith, a local preacher of Southville, South, Conn., was arrested in that place the other day by Constable Freeman S. Becks of Bergen on a warrant accusing her of abducting Mrs. Alice Tours from her husband, who lives in Bellmore. The warrant was sworn out by Mrs. Tours' husband, David Tours, who also had a second warrant issued for the arrest of his wife, accusing her of abandonment. The two women were found together, and despite their tears and protests both were placed under arrest. Mrs. Tours is a plump blonde not more than 25 years old. Her father is Deacon J. H. Davis of the Bellmore Presbyterian church. She is a member of the Methodist church in that village. A year ago she eloped with Touris, who is about 1 years old. They apparently did not live very happily together. Tours says his wife was infatuated with Miss Smith, who enticed her away from him. Mrs. Touris had her own complaints to make. She informed her mother that she had married too young. Miss Smith is about 40 years old. She is about as pronounced a brunette as Mrs. Touris is a blonde. She is also very good looking and has many friends. Touris says he once fitted up a home for his wife in Greenpoint, Brooklyn, and intended taking her there to live to get her away from the influence of Miss Smith, but she stayed there only three weeks, when she went back to her home again. Her husband is almost heart broken over her conduct and says he has had both women arrested as a last resort. Miss Smith, according to one story, was married to a man named Yatwell, who died about a year ago in Smithville. Much sympathy is expressed for Miss Smith's father, who is aged, and who feels keenly the position in which his daughter is placed.

A REVEREND SOMNAMBULIST.

While Asleep a Village Parson Creates a Midnight Sensation.

The other night, about 11 o'clock, as Prof. Lewelen of Henderson, Tenn., was passing along the main street in front of the courthouse he was astonished to meet Rev. Mr. Rodgers, the pastor of the Christian church, attired in only a nightshirt and a wide brimmed straw hat. As the pastor went by Prof. Lewelen noticed that his eyes were tightly closed, and, surmising that he was a somnambulist, determined to follow him. When Mr. Rodgers reached the gate of the courthouse yard, he entered, closely followed by Prof. Lewelen, and walking to the south side of the courthouse he grasped the lightning rod and began to ascend. Seizing him by the shirt Prof. Lewelen endeavored to pull him down, but the cloth gave way and the minister climbed to the cornice and then crawled to the top of the incline of the roof. Seating himself on the roof he slid to the bottom of the incline, catching by a slight projection at the very edge. He continued this performance until the professor became alarmed and, seizing the rope of the court house bell, began to ring for help. The people of the town assembled in the yard to the number of nearly three hundred, and watched the minister's antics for nearly half an hour. At the end of this time he descended the rod and, passing through the crowd, made his way to his boarding place. On being interviewed the next morning he declared that he knew nothing of what had happened the night before. He now sleeps with his leg chained to the bedpost.

FLANAGAN OF TEXAS.

The Man Who Immortalized the Term "What Are We Here For?"

Secretary Carlisle recently requested the resignation of J. Webster Flanagan, collector of customs at El Paso, Texas. Mr. Flanagan is known to fame as the man who made the immortal inquiry in the Chicago convention of 1880, "What are we here for?" Mr. Flanagan was a Texas member of the "Grant Guard" at the convention. Civil service reform came up for discussion, and when Mr. Baker of Massachusetts declared that certain ones had an eye to the offices Mr. Flanagan rose in his place, and standing on a chair demanded to know what they were there for anyhow if not for the offices.

The question was J. W. FLANAGAN received with roars of laughter and applause and thereafter became the watchword of the spoils hunters. In 1884 he was again a member of the national convention and supported Gen. Arthur, who appointed him collector of internal revenue for the Fourth district of Texas. He held the place one year, after which he retired to his stock farm where he remained until he was appointed to the position from which he has just been removed.

IN FOREIGN LANDS.

Tradition's Power Visible in All Grades of Old-World Social Life.

In addressing his faithful Brandenburgers on the occasion of the opening of their provincial diet recently, Emperor William laid stress on the important part which tradition plays in monarchical states, and the New York Tribune thinks that, although he dwelt more especially on the influence which it exercises on the relations of a nation toward the dynasty that has ruled over it for many centuries, yet it cannot be denied that it pervades the entire social life of the old world. Nor is its influence confined, as might be supposed, to the classes. Indeed, it is just as potent with the masses, a fact readily comprehensible when it is borne in mind that people on the other side of the Atlantic are, as a rule, content with their social status. The German farmer takes pride in the fact that his ancestors for hundreds of years have been peasant farmers like himself, and encourages his children to live up to the traditions of their forefathers. There are peasants in England, Germany, and in Brittany who can trace their descent back to the twelfth and thirteenth centuries, and who have sufficient sense of dignity to prefer to be at the head of their own class rather than at tail end of the aristocracy. In the same way the retail and wholesale traders in Europe, even in such republican countries as Switzerland and France, take an honest pride in the fact that their forefathers were traders like themselves, and it is the traditions of their ancestors which constitute the principal incentive for preserving unsullied by any failure or commercial disaster the good name which they have inherited. In France the lawyers in particular are fond of pointing out how their fathers and fathers' fathers had been honored members of the magistracy and of the bar, and they, too, strive to live up to the traditions of what is known in the Gallic tongue as the noblesse de robe.

Dangerous Colors Used by the Romans.

One of the most famous preparations among the ancient Romans for the complexion was that of poppæa, made of rye or barley flour mixed with oil, which was washed off with milk. It should be remarked here that this preparation was rather for the preservation and restoration of the skin, seriously affected by the colors of various kinds applied when the Roman ladies were in society. The white lead used to deaden the complexion when it was too fresh was always dangerous, and minium, or red lead, equally so. Antimony was in common use. To give freshness of color various substances were employed, among the rest a dye prepared from seaweed. In addition to the red and white applied to the face, to imitate what was supposed to be the natural hues of the complexion, a certain blue was added to show the delicate tracery of the veins.—San Francisco Chronicle.

FREE TO THE SICK.

Chicago Medical Council

AT FORT WAYNE.

At the Hotel Wayne For One Week, Commencing Wednesday, Sept. 20, and Closing Saturday, Sept. 30, 8 p. m.

An Investigation Which Discloses Facts of the Most Startling Character—Consultation, Advice, Examination and Treatment Until Cured Free of Charge to All Who Call During This Visit.

As many earnest requests have been made from the citizens of Indiana for a visit from these physicians, they have consented during their vacation, for the purpose of extending their already worldwide popularity, and with a desire to respond to the many earnest requests made from time to time by the friends and admirers of this progressive system, to spend ten days in Fort Wayne, where at their parlors especially arranged at the Hotel Wayne they will give to all those holding appointments as well as all others who desire CONSULTATION, ADVICE, EXAMINATION AND TREATMENT UNTIL CURED FREE OF CHARGE, thus giving sufferers from all forms of CHRONIC DISEASES personal attention, and thereby all the advantages of this new system, which has worked such marvelous cures in the surrounding country. Although the time and expense to them in giving this FREE TREATMENT in the cities visited will at least cost them Five Thousand Dollars, yet the number they will treat will be so large, the cases they will make be so varied, that the advertisement will be double what could be obtained with the expenditure of $[illegible] in any other way. They also hope to bring to the notice of all invalids their INSTITUTE, as well as the special system of practice. All they ask in return is that every patient so treated will appeal themselves a committee of one to state to all their friends the result obtained in their individual cases by the council's system. So the extension of their stay commonly from 10 a. m. to 1 and 2 to 5 p. m., and 7 to 8 evenings, for the entire time as above.

They treat all female trouble by the German method, which does away with the speculum, examinations, rings, pessaries and all local treatment.

They also desire to impress upon all men whose suffering from the errors of youth that they are the sole importers of the justly celebrated Hindoo remedy so well and favorably known to the old world as the Ami Venosine Hindoo Method. They will guarantee absolute cure to all cases taken.

All desiring to test the system will have such opportunity free of charge.

They earnestly invite you to come, see and examine for yourself their institution, advantages, appliances and success in curing the chronic ailments of suffering humanity. Their patients are numbered from all parts of the world and so remarkably has been their success that it is a source of wonder at the superior qualifications of the physicians who CAN FROM A STRICTLY SCIENTIFIC KNOWLEDGE OF THE STRUCTURE OF MAN, TELL DISEASE AT A GLANCE WITHOUT ASKING ANY QUESTIONS, LOOKING AT THE TONGUE OR FEELING THE PULSE.

No explanation is necessary from the patient, no previous knowledge of the case. Every ache, pain or disagreeable feeling pointed out and described better than the patient can do themselves. They locate, describe, understand and explain disease at a glance, determine its incipiency, progress and termination. Too blind in their consultation the patient's ailments is to be covered with every working in the body which lead to all the various diseases incident to these natures, give the proper remedy and course of treatment necessary to a perfect and permanent cure. No person should doctor any longer or take any more medicine before consulting them. Not only will they be surprised at their wonderful knowledge of disease, their plain, concise explanation of every cause and effect, but at the rapidity with which they relieve and cure the most obstinate diseases by this very progressive system. The only system, by the aid of which, coupled with their knowledge of the structure of man, and their experience with the peculiarities of disease and its actions upon the functions of the body, so demonstrate to the patient whose life is endangered the real cause of his trouble and points to an absolute relief and cure.

AN OPEN SWITCH

Causes Two Pittsburg Freight Trains to Collide.

Two Engines More or Less Demolished and the Tracks Blockaded—Wreck on the Nickel Plate.

An open switch at Lafayette, Ohio, a small station on the Pittsburg, east of Lima, resulted in damage to two engines and a number of freight cars this morning. The double track, which begins at Ada, merges into a single track at Lafayette. At that point the first section of No. 70, an eastbound freight train, was lying on the main track awaiting the arrival of No. 71, a westbound freight, which was to take the north track. The switch was thrown the wrong way, however, and No. 71 dashed into No. 70, piling two engines and several cars up in a heap. The engineers and firemen jumped and escaped serious injury. The wreck crew was called out from this city and were soon at work clearing the tracks of the wrecked engines and cars. So far as could be learned none of the trainmen were injured. The wreck is a bad one so far as the destruction of property is concerned.

At Millers, Ohio, at 1 o'clock this morning, two Nickel Plate freight trains jumped the rails and blocked the track for two or three hours. The early morning passenger trains ran around the blockade by way of the Wabash and the Baltimore and Ohio roads. No one was injured in the wreck.

BRIEFLY TOLD.

J. Brindle, night caller at the Nickel Plate, is taking in the world's fair.

Pittsburg Engineer W. E. Wilder is off duty on account of sickness.

Frank Frary, machinist in the Wabash shops, has returned from Chicago.

All west-bound Nickel Plate passenger trains ran in two sections yesterday.

John J. Ryan, of the Pittsburg copper shop, has gone to the world's fair.

Fireman Hoover, of engine house No. 2, will attend the world's fair next week.

George Wood has gone to Greenfield, Ohio, on business for the electric light works.

Boilermaker C. Fisher, of the Pittsburg shops, is off duty on account of sickness.

M. S. Wilson is in Cincinnati looking after affairs for the Electric Light company.

Thomas Sellars is sick and off duty. He is employed by Rhinesmith & Simonson.

William McLaughlin and Wilhelm Fry, railway men, have gone to Chicago and the fair.

M. Sullivan, of the Pittsburg car shop, is off duty on account of the sickness of his child.

Brakeman Ferguson is off duty on account of sickness. He is employed on the Nickel Plate.

J. Rhinesmith again presides at the throttle of a Pittsburg switch engine, after a few days absence.

W. S. Dana, superintendent of bridges and buildings of the Wabash, was in the city yesterday.

Samuel Grable, Nickel Plate yardmaster, went to the fair yesterday. Mrs. Grable accompanied him.

Adam Hensill, an employe of Rhinesmith & Simonson, is off duty on account of the death of his mother.

Mrs. G. Waldsmith, wife of the janitor at the Pittsburg car shops, is lying very ill, with little hopes of her recovery.

Theodore Doble resumed his position at the desk in the Pittsburg round house this morning after a week at the fair.

George Hannon resumed his labors in the lumber yards of Rhinesmith & Simonson this morning after an illness of four or five days.

Nickel Plate Conductors Hawkey and W. Waterson are taking a vacation of a few days. Conductor Uhran is filling Mr. Waterson's place.

J. H. Street, Nickel Plate telegrapher, has been called here from South Whitley to relieve L. R. Collins, who will go into the general offices.

Frank Hanson, of Newark, Ohio, is under instructions at the electric light works. When sufficiently versed in electrical matters, he will take charge of a plant.

Clarence Kerr, one of the dispatchers in Trainmaster S. K. Blair's office, has gone to Chicago to relieve one of the Nickel Plate Dispatchers in that city for ten days.

Conductor J. E. Brown of the Nickel Plate, is taking a vacation and his train is now in charge of Conductor Aikens, who, during the dull season, was braking on the road.

Conductors Short and Phipps and Engineers Thomas Rill and Murphy, of the Nickel Plate, have been granted leave of absence. They will spend a part of their vacation at the world's fair.

John Gribbins and Jacob Hilgeman whose duties are to set up electrical machinery for the Electric Light company, have returned, the former from Washington, Ind., and the latter from Wilmington, Ohio.

Thomas Maughan is firing Nickel Plate engine No. 157 for Engineer Dennis McCarthy during the absence of Charlie Ingalls, the regular fireman who is up the St. Joe river with the Big Four Fishing club.

W. Alexander, boilermaker, has resigned his position at the Pittsburg shops and taken service with the Wabash.

The following Pittsburg trainmen, who were on the absent list, reported this morning: Engineers W. L. Scott and J. Varnel; Firemen H. Strasser, A. M. Steele and J. Strasser.

The Huntington Herald says: "M. B. Humphrey, of Fort Wayne, son of Merchant Policeman John Humphrey, was the guest of his father, in this city, yesterday. The young man is employed in the offices of the Pennsylvania company in Fort Wayne.

J. D. White, of the Pittsburg blacksmith shop, now rides a fine Rambler. Next Saturday morning he will start out on a big run if the weather is favorable. He will go to Wabash, thence home by way of Columbia City, covering a distance of about 100 miles.

It is stated positively that the Milwaukee will not make any attempt at present to reduce wages of employes, the opposition on the part of engineers and employes generally being so united and so strong as to convince the managers that a move in that direction at present is impracticable.

The more the recent frequent collisions in this state and Illinois are considered the more firmly convinced are the public that such accidents are things that can be avoided and should never occur. It is little, if any, less than criminal to run heavily loaded passenger trains in sections following each other at such short distances as have been permitted recently. In this day there should be a law requiring a block system on all roads, and a more rigid enforcement of rules.

An electric railway is to be constructed to connect the cities of Detroit and Toledo, which will be used to transfer passengers, express matter and light freight. It will be operated by the Ohio and Michigan Electric Railway, Light, Heat and Power company, which will organize in Toledo this week. Besides local capitalists a number of New Yorkers and foreigners are interested in the enterprise. A part of the road is to be built this fall. The capital stock is to be $1,000,000 and it is reported that bonds have already been disposed of to a like amount. It is the intention to run trains between the two cities every half hour.

IN MODERN WARFARE

THE FIRE AND FALL BACK GUN A SUCCESS.

After Many Years of Uncertainty the War Department Has a Defense Gun That Will Do the Work.

[Washington Correspondence.]

THE RACE BETWEEN projectiles and armor, which has been carried on with such vigor during the last twenty years and which is of such vast importance from a naval point of view, takes a different phase in the problem of protection for land defenses. In very much exposed works where the sites available are extremely contracted, it is still a question of armor against projectiles, but on account of the great cost of armor plating it is necessary to resort to other devices for all situations which admit of any other system of defense. It is now conceded that the old plan of mounting guns on carriages which are always exposed to view, and which must depend for safety on the inaccuracy of the enemy's fire, is suitable only for commanding positions on bluffs. The entrance to the harbor of San Francisco is very favorable for such a defense. From the neighboring bluffs an immense amount of comparatively low-placed ... can be provided to cover the approach to the Golden Gate.

The advantage of such locations is twofold. What is called "a plunging fire" is thus obtained and the chances of hitting the fort are very great on account of the exposure of the decks of the ships. In this way guns of comparatively small caliber are effective against ships which would be invulnerable to direct fire.

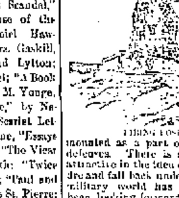

The other advantage consists in safety from the fire of a fleet. If at a good distance, there a ship would have to fire at such a high angle that the shot would strike in the battery, while still rising, and hence it would be likely to go entirely over the guns or to strike the ... them, where it could do no harm. To drop a shot with much effect a ship must keep at such a distance that the shot shall reach the battery in the falling part of its flight, and at such a distance the fire from the ship is so inaccurate that barbette guns can well afford to take the chances of an occasional hit.

It is a very different matter when the defense must be made from a low shore like that of Sandy Hook. Not only would barbette guns be easily disabled, but the rain of small projectiles from the machine guns would prevent the men from properly serving the batteries.

The most promising method of protecting guns on such sites is by means of disappearing carriages. On such carriages the guns are exposed only when ready to fire, and after firing the recoil carries them behind the parapet, where they may be loaded in safety. The great advantage of such a system is that the protection afforded to the gun may generally be so arranged as to present an unbroken line to the front, and with such an indefinite target a ship could not carry enough ammunition to do any appreciable damage unless by a lucky chance shot. In such a case but little provision need be made to resist penetration, as the safety of the battery lies in its being out of sight.

Even where the gun must be mounted in a prominent fort or in a conspicuous part of any system of defense, it would generally be amply protected by remaining under cover except when firing. But in this case the parapet must be made to resist penetration, and such a system would be much more expensive than the plan first mentioned, and for a given cost fewer guns could be mounted.

Disappearing carriages have not yet been extensively used, but recent experiments show a very decided progress, and it is probable that in a very short time a number will be made and mounted as a part of our permanent defenses. There is something very attractive in the idea of being able to fire and fall back under cover, and the military world has for many years been looking forward to the production of a successful system of this kind. In fact such a system is a necessity if we are to progress beyond the present very expensive methods of affording adequate protection for our heavy guns.

One of the most recent designs is that invented by Capt. W. B. Gordon of the Ordnance department, United States army. This carriage presents some features which are not found in any other. It is the only carriage in which the gun returns and recoils forward after the limit of its motion to the rear has been reached. In this means the gun is brought well in under the parapet in the loading position, and the protection can be made practically perfect with very reasonable dimensions of the moving parts of the carriage. It is claimed that no other carriage has the advantage given by this peculiar motion, and hence it is the only one which can be used with safety for positions requiring as much cover as is now given by gunlifts and turrets.

The accompanying illustrations show the principal parts of the carriage very clearly, and the character of the motion is very readily understood by remembering that the whole moving system simply revolves about the four parallel journals which are mounted in the top of the main frame. These four journals, with the arms on their ends, are simply four double cranks. In the loading position the ... arms extend upward from the axle of the main frame and the top carriage is mounted on these arms by means of two shafts. One of these shafts is journalled through the front of the top carriage and the other through the rear. The first has its ends fastened to the front pair of arms, and the other to the rear pair. The four shorter arms extend downward outside of the main frame and ... a ... cross support ... frame which surrounds the ... frame of the carriage. The counterweight ... nearly balances the ... of the carriage, so that in ... the gun up and down ... elevation during the firing ... other devices.

carriage is mounted with the truck which carries the piston rods. During the motion of recoil these struts are closed like parallel rulers, the truck and ... rods to the rear. The piston heads are solid, and the liquid in the cylinders is forced through ... valves into the air chamber. The air pressure is just sufficient to bring the carriage to rest at the end of the stroke, and the stored energy in the air chamber is available for running the gun back into firing position. This is done by opening a valve and allowing the air pressure to force the liquid back again into the cylinders, the motion of the pistons being communicated to the top carriage by means of the parallel struts.

The maneuvering of the carriage may be by hand, and for this purpose two small platforms, each with a train of gearing, are attached to the counterweight, one on each side. The gears are operated by means of cranks, and motion is communicated to the movable parts of the carriage by causing a pinion attached to the counterweight to move on a circular rack fastened to the side of the main frame.

The gun mounted on this carriage is the service 10-inch breech loading steel rifle, which throws a projectile weighing 575 pounds with a velocity of about one mile in ... seconds. The projectile has 17,000 foot of energy, which is about what the gun itself (weighing 30 tons) would have after falling from the top of the Washington monument. This gives a good idea of the force of the blow from such a projectile.

This gun has been fired from the Gordon carriage several times with full charges, and the motion in recoil is remarkably gentle and easy. The heavy mass makes the velocity of recoil very low, and the long stroke of the pistons (nearly eight feet) brings the gun to rest with very little strain on the parts. The air pressure begins at eighty pounds and ends at about 275 pounds per square inch.

The tests of this carriage are now in progress at the United States proving ground, and it is expected that they will soon be completed.

LEAGUE "AUDIENCES."

An Umpire's View of the Peculiarities of Each League City.

John McQuaid, one of the official umpires of the National league, in a recent interview is quoted as saying:

"Washington and Baltimore are about the most disagreeable, and Boston, New York, Chicago and Brooklyn the nicest cities to umpire a game in. The St. Louis, Cincinnati, Cleveland and Pittsburg crowds make considerable noise and occasionally make life miserable for an umpire, and of course we have no other recourse but to stand it. The Sunday crowds at St. Louis and Cincinnati are the worst encountered anywhere. In New York, Brooklyn, Boston and Chicago the crowds are not so prejudiced. They want to see the home team win, but not unless they can do so on the merits of the game. Philadelphia people are not so liberal-minded. They want to see Harry Wright's boys win and are not particular how they do so. Louisville is the same way, and since in a while a Sunday crowd of Kentucky enthusiasts will see ... long and ... when they think the Louisvilles have not been given fair treatment."

OUR CRUISER.

The Charleston Arrives At Rio de Janeiro.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27.—The United States cruiser Charleston arrived at Rio de Janeiro last evening. A dispatch to this effect was received at the state department this morning. The message contained nothing regarding the bombardment of the city, nor did it give any information as to the situation in the Brazilian capital. The state department was greatly pleased on hearing of the Charleston's arrival there, as until now the United States has not had a vessel in the harbor at Rio de Janeiro to protect American interests.

LOCAL LINES.

P. F. Towey, formerly of this city, but now of Chicago, is here on a visit.

Miss Burger entertained a number of friends at her last evening in honor of Miss O'Connor and Miss John.

Mrs. Lena Mund, sister to Frank F. and Andrew Miller, is visiting relatives here and at Shelton. The lady resides at Grand Crossing.

Last evening the city council adjourned until next Tuesday evening. There were not the required number present last night to pass certain resolutions.

Mike Zurns denies that his watch was stolen at Chicago. He lost his chain and placing his watch in another pocket missed it for a time, but afterwards found it.

Monday evening Miss May Barr entertained a few friends at her home, 5 East Butler street. Progressive pedro was the feature of the evening. Among those present were Miss Helen and Mary Simonson, Mary and Annie Getty, Bertha Bennigen, Agnes Hart, May Barr, Messrs John Raidy, Will and Joe Barr, Clarence Bigelow, Frank Clark, Cyril Dorothy. The prize was awarded to Mary Simonson and Frank Clark. At 12 o'clock a delicious supper was served. The guests departed at a late hour assuring Miss Barr they had spent a very pleasant evening.

"Well, they got ready to go and walked down to where they had left the boat, only to find that it had drifted away. Bill said he yelled for help as loud as he could, but nobody heard him but Nellie. When he found no one was coming he waded in the water towards the west shore and found that the water was only up to his waist in the deepest part. He carried the fish and things over on his first trip and then went back for Nellie, who sat upon his shoulders. He got along all right until within about a dozen steps from shore, when he struck his foot against a rock that sent him sprawling in the water and he had a hard job in dragging her to shore. But they kept on knowing they would come out somewhere in a little while. They hadn't gone far when Nellie gave a scream which Bill said made his hair stand up on his head. They had barely recovered from their fright when two big billy goats, as white as snow, came a drive at them. They jumped to one side to avoid the blows and went head over heels down a steep embankment and landed on the bottom among a lot of blackberry and wild ... right on top of the goats, which were both killed ... Bill managed to get Nellie out of the bushes and up the hill again, and seeing a light in a farmhouse, walked toward it. They were given a hearty welcome and one of the women took Nellie up stairs and loaned her some dry clothes. Then the folks got them something to eat, and after supper the man hitched a horse to his wagon and drove them to Conshohocken, where they took a train for Norristown, where Bill hired a hack and they were driven home.

OUR NEW DEPARTURE.

Remarkable Distribution —OF— STANDARD :: BOOKS!

At Nominal Prices,

And that can only be made possible by our co-operation for the benefit of the "Sentinel" Readers.

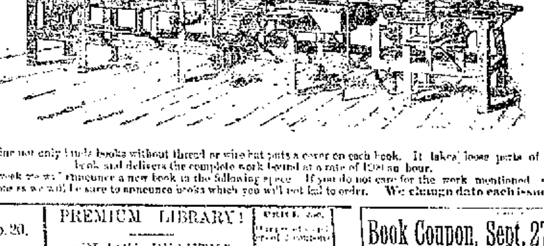

BOOKS LIKE THE ABOVE.

These Books Cannot be Obtained at Less Than the Wholesale Price in Any Other Way Than as Described Below

WE take pleasure in announcing to our readers that we have made a contract whereby we can furnish them with standard books at absolutely less than wholesale prices. The books which we offer each week are by world famous writers and are printed from absolutely new type especially made for these works. The books are Bound by an Entirely New Process which does away with the old style of thread or wire binding. Each leaf is bound into the book separately and amalgamated with the whole, allowing the book to Lie Perfectly Flat when open, giving ease and comfort to the reader.

The following is an illustration of the new process perfect binding machine which does this work and the only machines in existence are owned and controlled by the publishers of these books.

This machine not only binds books without thread or wire but puts a cover on each book. It takes loose parts of the book and delivers the complete work bound at a rate of 1200 an hour.

Each week we will announce a new book in the following space. If you do not care for the work mentioned save your coupons as we will be sure to announce books which you will not fail to order. We change date each issue.

Dr. A. C. Boswell has removed his office and residence to 324 Calhoun street.

Home lodge No. 342, F. and A. M., will meet this evening at 7:30 o'clock for work.

Mrs. G. H. Viberg and daughter, Miss Daisy, are spending the week at the world's fair.

Col. Hossler, street car transfer man at the corner of Main and Calhoun streets, is taking a vacation at the fair.

Andrew Brosius, of Aboit township, and Jesse Brosius and wife, of this city, are spending the week at the world's fair.

Mrs. C. T. Strawbridge of 335 East Wayne street, will leave Saturday for Chicago, where she will be the guest of friends a week or more.

Queen Esther lodge No. 321, D. of R., will hold a shadow social at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph M. Singmaster, 177 Jackson street, this evening.

George Shuman and C. Eader, formerly of this city, but now with a hardware firm at Cincinnati, were in the city yesterday giving an exhibition of a patent lawn sprinkler.

The annual mission festival of the St. John's Lutheran church will be held next Sunday. Rev. Hecht, of Dayton, Ohio, will preach in German in the morning and in English in the evening.

The Huntington Democrat says: "E. H. McDonald, wholesale grocer of Fort Wayne, was in the city this morning on the settlement of some business matters connected with Barick & Co., of Markle."

The Bluffton News says: "The Haydn quartet, of Fort Wayne, the finest in the state, has been secured for the grand pipe organ recital to be held at the Methodist church, Friday evening, October 13."

The admission to the organ recital at the Trinity Episcopal church on Friday evening will be by ticket only. A collection will be taken that evening to defray the expenses of bringing Harrison Wilde, of Chicago.

Mrs. C. W. Burkett, of Warsaw, is in the city, a guest of her sister, Mrs. C. S. Wharton, of 15 Clay street. Her daughter will attend Westminster seminary this winter, and Mrs. Burkett is here to make arrangements for her admission.

Fred J. Bechtold, bookkeeper for McDonald, Watt & Wilt, is now at Hopkins Mich., where he was called by the dangerous illness of his young son, Raymond. Mr. Bechtold telegraphed here last night that his son was not expected to live, but this morning the child was much improved. Mrs. Bechtold has been in Michigan for some time.

A committee of fourteen priests from the diocese will go to Cincinnati on October 3 to act as an escort to Bishop Rademacher. The new bishop and the committee will be met at Lima by the special train furnished by the Pennsylvania company and a large delegation of laymen from Fort Wayne. Among those who will go to Cincinnati are Revs. Koenig, Oechtering, Bleckman, Campion, Dempsey, Delaney, Kordt, Wedeau, Walters, Plaster and others.

Last evening a new Degree of Honor lodge, auxiliary to Fort Wayne lodge No. 14, A. O. U. W., was installed at A. O. U. W. hall on Court street. The new lodge numbers about forty charter members. The installing officer was S. S. Scoville. The following officers were elected and installed. Past chief of honor, Mrs. H. S. Vreeland, chief of honor, Mrs. W. J. Leader, lady of honor, Mrs. A. W. Line, chief of ceremonies, Mrs. J. L. Roby; recorder, Mrs. L. L. Noecker, financier, Mrs. William Rabeck, receiver, W. F. Reitze, sister usherer, Mrs. Otis Chenchain; inside watch, Mrs. M. I. Moore; outside watch, C. A. Grimes.

A small audience greeted Mr. Thos. Keene and his company of players at the Temple last evening but it is safe to say that those present were, at the close of the performance, ready to acknowledge Keene as one of the very greatest actors of modern times. He is certainly the greatest tragedian who has appeared in this city for many months past. Mr. Keene's support, with one or two exceptions is good and the costumes were particularly fine. The play of Richard III excites admiration at the creative genius of the immortal bard of Avon, but in these piping times of peace it leaves an unpleasant impression upon the average audience who witnesses its presentation. It is the too faithful reproduction of the base, murdering hunchback of the house of York.

Joseph Sandler is [illegible] with typhoid fever.

Edward Witte is recovering from a severe attack of typhoid fever.

Mrs. Joseph Slater, of 10 Erie street, will visit Chicago and the fair next week.

Mrs. Lizzie Thiebolt has returned from a protracted visit with Michigan friends.

Miss Eva Hartman, of Hanna street, will go to Chicago to visit the fair for a week or so.

Carl, the bright little son of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Lepper, observed his second birthday yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. John Voetje, daughter Bertha, and son John, are visiting at the world's fair this week.

Mrs. Laura Hess, of 51 Elizabeth street, leaves today for Chicago to visit friends and attend the world's fair.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Moise, of New York, are at the Wayne hotel the guest of their nephew, Day Clerk Bonneville.

Mr. and Mrs. Manning Smith and Mr. and Mrs. William Lerch of 50 East Wayne street, will attend the world's fair next week.

Peter Ulrich and wife, of Newark, N. J., who had been visiting John Wessel, sr., of Lafayette street, have gone to Chicago to visit the world's fair for a few weeks.

Lieuts. L. A. Centlivre and A. L. Friend are at the Indiana day celebration at the world's fair and will appear for the first time on the staff of Governor Matthews in their full regimentals.

Last evening, at No. 300 East Creighton avenue, Miss Lizzie Pritchard was united in marriage to William Plogsterth, traveling salesman for Root & Co. Only intimate friends were present.

Mrs. Charles Budd, who is now at the St. Joseph hospital, is rapidly improving. She is under the care of Dr. Stemen. Her friends at Columbia City and Pierceton will be glad to learn of this.

Last night Fort Wayne lodge, No. 116, K. of P., had a grand time. Wm. E. Lewis was given the third rank and did not reach his home until 1 o'clock this morning. A fine lunch was served.

Mrs. Walter Shane, wife of a farmer living near Dunfee, Ind., is lying very ill with typhoid fever, and Mrs. J. R. Shane, of this city, mother of the unfortunate lady, has gone out to attend her daughter.

Thomas Clark, of Leavenworth, Kas., is in the city on a short visit to his sister, Mrs. Margaret Kelley, of West Third street. Mr. Clark left Fort Wayne twenty-eight years ago and this is his first return since then.

An afternoon tea will be given to the members of the women's auxiliary to the railroad department of the Y. M. C. A. on Thursday, the 28th inst., by Mrs. R. E. Doty, No. 352 South Hanna street. A business session is also called for the same place.

One week from today, at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. William Matsch, will occur the marriage of Miss Martha Matsch to Mr. Ernest Tegtmeyer, the ceremony being performed by Rev. Wagenhals, of the English Lutheran church. The young people will reside at 32 Montgomery street.

Last evening the Highland Pleasure club was enjoyably entertained by the Misses Josephine and Tracy Brossard, at their home on the north side. Music, cards and other amusements were the features of the evening. Among the fortunate ones present were: Misses Clara Rousman, Kate Hilker, Eliza Gibson, Clara Gocke, Julia Manock, Clara Brossard and Mary Dietz.

In getting to Chicago today the City band experienced some very hard luck. The excursion train on the Nickel Plate was several hours late and Messrs. Reinecke, Jacobs and Gable, who had intended to go up on that train, did not reach Chicago until late this afternoon. Most of the band boys went up yesterday and were on the grounds early. Philip Keins and Samuel Rudisill went up on the Pittsburg road, while Nate Smith did not go at all. The members who were delayed were compelled to remain to play at the Temple last evening.

Stewart & Hahn,

Cloaks Form the greatest attraction in our Store at present.

WE have sold hundreds of Cloaks in the past two weeks, which shows conclusively that people will find the money, somehow, to buy bargains.

If it is true, that money saved is money earned, the patrons of our Cloak Department this season have earned more than we have; but we have no desire to make money on our Cloaks, we simply want to get rid of them at almost any price.

If you need anything in the Cloak line, come at once, as the assortment of sizes in many lines is getting broken up.

OUR New Blankets have just been received, and comprise everything under that head, from 75c per pair to the best.

WE have some Plain Scarlet and Scarlet and Black Plaid, all wool, home-made Blankets, that we are in a position to sell at less than market value.

WE keep everything in Ladies', Gents' and Children's Underwear.

Equestrain & Combination Suits

For Ladies' and Misses' at the lowest prices.

Best quality Fancy Prints, including Indigo Blue, at 5c per yard.

Comfort Calico and Cotton Batting in endless variety, and Cheese Cloth in all colors for Fancy Quilts.
